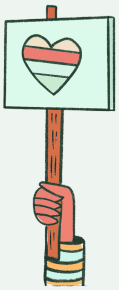
REFRAME FILM FESTIVAL

2027 COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS

A Community Celebration of Documentary Film and Media Art



Help us connect the stories on screen with the vital work happening in our community.

Each winter, ReFrame brings thousands of people together to discover bold new documentaries from down the street and around the world. Our Community Partnerships connect films that explore questions of social and environmental justice with local groups working on those issues.

ReFrame returns January 28–31 in downtown Nogojiwanong / Peterborough. The festival continues February 2–7, with a selection of films streaming on demand across Canada.

We invite registered charities, non-profits, grassroots and community groups, and educational organizations, including educational institutions, to partner on a single film or a themed collection that speaks to your work.

As a Community Partner, you can help audiences see how the issues raised in a film show up close to home. You may be invited to introduce a film, speak with audiences, or host a table at the festival. It's a chance to share resources, highlight a local initiative, or invite people to get involved in your work.

Partnership Options

Choose a single film or a themed collection. Both options connect your group with festival audiences and recognize your contribution on screen, in print, and online.

	Single Film Partnership	Film Collection Partnership
Film match	One film that speaks to your work	A group of films that explore a shared theme
On screen	Your logo before your matched film	Your logo before all films in the collection
On our website	Your linked logo on our partners page	Your linked logo on our partners page
Sliding scale contribution	$175–$475	$500–$1500
In the printed film guide	Listing alongside your matched film and on our partnership page	Your logo alongside all films in the collection, and on our partnership page

Choose a contribution based on your group's financial capacity. It costs ReFrame about $500 to coordinate and deliver a single-film partnership, including staff time, design costs, and materials. If your budget allows, please consider contributing toward the upper end of the scale.

The fit between your work and the film comes first. If cost is a barrier, we're happy to explore reduced-cost or no-fee options where appropriate. We can also tailor a larger partnership around the themes and films that best connect with your work.

To explore what's possible, please contact Executive Director Kait Dueck at info@reframefilmfestival.ca.

Become a ReFrame Community Partner

1 Choose your partnership. Decide whether you'd like to focus on one film or connect with audiences across a themed collection. Then choose a contribution within the sliding scale that fits your group's financial capacity.

2 Tell us about your work. Share your group's mandate, the film themes you're interested in, and any initiatives or resources you'd like audiences to know about.

3 Send your payment. Please send your contribution when you submit the form. Once we've received both, we'll use what you've shared to find a film or collection that speaks to your work.

Payment Methods

With your payment, please be sure to include your invoice number or your group's name and what the payment is for.
